Statement of Amanda Ryncarz

I posted on liarscheatersrus.com because I wanted to warn other women in order to protect them from what I suffered.

I agree that the law should not protect men who lie and cheat in their relationships and I do believe that women should have a legal right to share information with each other if they feel that they have been betrayed in a relationship.

Over and over, Matthew led me to believe that we were going to get married. I was shocked when he called me on the telephone on October 3, 2010 to tell me that our relationship was not working, and I was even more shocked to learn that twelve days later, he married another woman.

I think that I should be able to protect other women from being hurt the way that I was.
